MER Policy -- Good Manners for Workshops

Embroiderers' unused to attending a formal class or those who have fallen into careless habits, may be unaware of ways in which they can inadvertently disturb classmates and teachers alike. You may find the following suggestions useful in avoiding embarrassment:

- Excessive talking is disruptive.
The good student listens to the teacher, not neighbors. If you have questions, ask the teacher, especially if you are struggling with a stitch or technique. Do not attempt to answer questions for the teacher.
- Listen to instructions carefully and read all written material.
Remember, however, not to take all the teacher's time. Share her with others.
- Teachers are hired because they have displayed expertise in areas or techniques which the group wants to learn.
If your normal procedure is different, give the new way a trial. Don't discuss other teachers or their styles/techniques. Precious little in the needlework field is carved in stone. If you don't agree with the instructor, the evaluation form is your means of communication. For the others in class, this teacher may be the "fountain of wisdom".
- Strict workshop policy prohibits all smoking, food, and drink in workshop areas and wearing perfume.
Areas AWAY from the work surfaces are designated for this purpose.
- Workshop directions are not to be copied or taught without written permission from the teacher.
You could be breaking the law if you do so.
- Don't forget to say "thank you" to your teacher.
- Wear your nametag.
- Be on time for class and be prepared with class materials as specified in your student letter.
Anticipate extra needs: extension cords, needles, etc.
- Do not return late from lunch.
This is a discourtesy to the class and teacher.
- Make every effort to stay for the entire workshop time.
If you must leave early, forewarn the teacher and make arrangements to get the additional instructions from a fellow student at a later time. Do not demand time from the teacher.
- Just as you come to a class on time, be sure to leave promptly when the class is over.
Do not delay the teacher from her travel time.
